THE NORTHWEST

THE small boy who plays circus with the "trick-goat" in his back yard should see that the St. Jacobs Oil bottle is not empty.

THE Bucyrus gas well is down 2,000 feet, and still there is no appearance of either gas or oil. The stockholders have determined to go 3,000 feet deeper.

MR. RUSKIN thinks there is a great future for American art—but he hardly realizes the enormous demand over here for Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Indeed, he doesn't.

SEE here ladies: Seal-skins have advanced twenty percent in London. This means according to a New York dealer, an advance of $15 to $30 on each garment. Husbands prepare to perspire.

THE Chinese, as a nation, are numerous and plentiful. If they were to pass before an observer in a single file the procession would never cease, for a new generation would be coming on the stage as fast as the procession moved.

A PAPER, in describing the size of Bartholdi's Goddess of Liberty, says "twenty people could stand on her corns at once." It may be all right to try the experiment on the bronze statue, but it isn't a healthy thing to try on the genuine article.

EVERYTHING seems to be exploding nowadays, observes an exchange. Coffee-pots tea-kettles, sugar-boxes, hubbard squashes, sugar-bowls and pickle-jars are all on the bust, and no man knoweth when his tobacco-box is going to be driven through his body.

NOW an old man 67 years of age is trotted out who goes one better than most old men who have perfect eyesight, sound teeth, black hair, etc. This old fellow, it is said, "can ride horseback as well as he could when a boy." Probably he couldn't ride horseback at all when a boy.

AN exchange shows the superiority of a woman in that she can wear a stand-up collar and a gentleman's necktie without having the tie under her ear more than half the time. That's all right, says a neighbor, but a woman is many times to blame for a gentleman's necktie being awry.

THE latest idea for ladies who have more time than they know what to do with is to make a patch work bed cover of the backs of discarded kid gloves. To match and combine the colors, both of the kid and the ornamental stitching, and to fit the shapes, affords an occupation far more fascinating and prolonged than "crazy quilt work."

KEEP a fire in the living room night and morning, on these November days when it is hot in the middle of the day, and cool and damp at the beginning and close. If you have a good old-fashioned hearth, so much the better. Keep a bright fire on it, nothing is more pleasant or healthy. But do not think it because you have a fire you must shut the doors. This is better than quinine for keeping off malaria.

LULU, a little five year old Kenton girl, whose Uncle Harry had recently died, came to her grandmother, the other day, with a bit of paper in her hand and said: "Mamma, I have written to uncle Harry." The letter ran: "Dear Uncle Harry: We are all well and hope you are. I went out to the cemetery to-day with papa and saw your monument. I think it is real nice. How do you and God get along?"

THERE is a man in Pittsburg who has been estimating the cost of living to a man 80 years old. He says: "In the past seventy-five years I have partaken of 82,125 meals, consumed 61,595 pounds of solid food, drank 51,100 cups of tea and 18,250 cups of coffee. I have not lived extravagantly, and my meals have cost me on an average eight cents each. Therefore the 82,125 meals have cost me $6,580." The cost of his clothing makes up for the remainder of the $8,000.

A MAJORITY of the boys who leave the farm because they can't make a living, find it a very poor living they make at anything else. The only good reason a boy can find for leaving the farm is that it is not adapted to his tastes, and yet not a few mistake their calling even then. The farmer can with a few principles of shrewdness and economy make a living if nothing more, while the man of salary may through sickness or some other cause lose his position, and if he has a family dependent upon him, he soon finds himself in a condition which no farmer need envy.

THE gross earnings of ninety-three railroads in the United States during the first nine months of this year, were $154,708,255, as against $148,523,770 during the corresponding period of last year, and an increase of 4.3 per cent. and $153,252,937 during the first nine months of 1884, an increase of 1.9 per cent. The number of miles of road owned by the ninety-three companies is 48,973 against 43,474 in 1884, and 41,810 in 1884.

WE clip the following in relation to hog cholera, from an exchange: "If you open the hog's mouth you will find two blisters back of the tooth or below them on the cheek. Take a sharp instrument and open these and make the hog swallow the blood that flows from them; then give the hog from one to two ounces of castor oil. Do this when the hog first shows the symptoms of the disease. This has been tried by several in this neighborhood and has proved successful." We advise our farmer readers to cut the above out and save it. It costs nothing to try the experiment, and may save them hundreds of dollars.

PEOPLE are curious beings, and it is thoroughly inconsistent with the theory that Americans are a nation of hustlers to see how trivial a thing will attract a crowd. Stop at a store window, and notice how quickly somebody, wondering what you see of interest, will be at your side. Each comer attracts a new one, and, if somebody didn't move on, a block would surely occur. Where an automaton goes through its motions, fifty persons stand and crane their necks in idle wonder. Where a hen on its way to the dinner-pot, has escaped and sought refuge on a front door cap, and half a hundred persons stop to watch the efforts of the man to recapture the feathered biped, and refuse to disperse until the capture is an accomplished fact. Merchants understand this trait of character, and their success is largely attributable to the frequency with which they cast a tempting bait.

TO OUR READERS.

We cannot too strongly urge upon our readers the necessity of subscribing for a family weekly newspaper of the first class—such, for instance, as the Independent, of New York. Were we obliged to select one publication for habitual and careful reading to the exclusion of all others, we should choose unhesitatingly the Independent. It is a newspaper, magazine, and review, all in one. It is a religious, a literary, an educational, a story, an art, a scientific, and agricultural, a financial, and a political paper combined. It has 32 folio pages and 21 departments. No matter what a person's religion, or politics or profession may be, no matter what the age, sex, employment or condition, may be, the Independent will prove a help, an instructor. Our readers can do no less than to send a postal for a free specimen copy, or for thirty cents the paper will be sent a month, enabling one to judge of its merits more critically. Its yearly subscription is $3.00, or two years for $5.00.

Address, The Independent, 251 Broadway, New York City.

THE late Mrs. A. T. Stewart disposition of her husband's vast property will do a great many people much good. So far as is known, all the relatives are generously cared for and will, in after years, have abundant reason to thank their lucky stars that they were born into relationship with a man so capable of amassing a fortune. A small fortune, $25,000, is left to be divided among the household servants living at the time of her death. The fact that so large a portion of the estate is thus bequeathed renders less probable any contest of its provisions. This is still further decreased by the provision that, if any heir becomes a party to any proceeding to interfere with the will, the provisions in his favor will be cancelled. Of course that penalty would be conditional on the failure to break the will, but it will doubtless have the effect of making an heir think twice before endeavoring to break the will.

But that which will make the name of Stewart longest remembered is the generous provision for the completion of the Episcopal Church at Garden City, Long Island, and for its endowment, and for the erection of schools and seminaries in connection with this cathedral, all to be conveyed to the Protestant Episcopal Church for its use forever. While it is true that there is something selfish in this memorial church project, the desire to do good through education and religion is so marked that it is proper to look at the bequest as a mark of generosity.—Enquirer.

Dan Rice, the old circus clown, claims to be the rightful heir to an estate of 300,000 acres in Texas. He says he went to Texas and found the title perfect, and now he has only to prove that he is the son of his father whose name was McLaren. The showman's full name is Daniel Rice McLaren, but he only used part of it for professional purposes. He says that he will soon be able to clear that matter up and that men of means are furnishing him the money to secure his fortune.

"Give Ely's Cream Balm a trial. This justly celebrated remedy for the cure of catarrh, hay fever, cold in the head, etc., can be obtained of any reputable druggist, and may be relied upon as a safe and pleasant remedy for the above complaints and will give immediate relief. It is not a liquid, snuff or powder, has no offensive odor and can be used at any time with good results, as thousands can testify, among them some of the attaches of this office."—Smith of the Times, May 29, 1886. 2t

KANSAS LETTER.

MULLINVILLE, KAN., Oct. 30th, 1886.

ED. NORTHWEST.—I have been thinking that a letter from this part of Kansas might benefit some of the readers of the NORTHWEST.

Kiowa is one of the second tier of counties from the Indian territory. It's west line is 140 miles from the west line of the State and is 120 miles from Wichita. It's latitude is about 2400 feet and its area about 800 square miles. The climate is desirable, the winters being short and summers uniform; nights cool and refreshing. Throat and lung trouble are very rare, the air being pure and healthy. The springs and summer rains are quite sufficient, and comes at the proper time for crops. The soil varies but little, being mostly a black loam and 3 to 10 feet deep. All crops grow successfully, corn will make this year from 30 to 70 bu; wheat from 15 to 45; oats from 40 to 70. Corn is now selling at 30c; wheat 65c; oats 35c; potatoes was a splendid crop this year and are selling for 60c. Broom corn has been grown with good success. Mellons and pumpkins do better here than any place I ever seen.

It would be hard to make any improvements in the lay of the country it being just rolling enough to drain well, and is admirably adapted to mixed farming and stock raising. The entire surface is covered with a heavy coat of bulla grass and blue stem. The society is first class. As to schools, although the country is not quite two years old, the people are awakened to the interest of the public schools and most of the country is organized into school districts. There are now about thirty-six schools organized, aggregating 1,000 school children. Good and commodious school buildings are being built, and Kiowa county will soon rank with the older counties in school advantages.

Churches also keep fully up with the times, the two denominations that hold services here have large congregations and the entire county is not behind in this respect. Good pure water is obtained in abundance at an average of 50 feet, there is but very little government land in the county, but parties desiring land can buy first class farms at very reasonable prices, $5 to $12 per acre. Mullinville is situated in the center of the county, north and south, and is five miles from the west line of the county, and is 11½ miles west of the county seat. Business of nearly all kinds are represented. It now has a population of 400, where the county has a population of 5,000. Railroads are no longer a matter of speculation, that the Rock Island and the Kingman & Western are bound for Mullinville, and will have a junction here is an established fact, a no better place can be found for the investment of capital than in Mullinville and Kiowa county. The richest agriculture and Gracing county in southwestern Kansas. Money invested here will double in 12 to 18 months, money loans at 8 cents a month and get the best kind of security. This is the banner county of the southwest, and Mullinville is located in the garden of the county.

The Trade Outlook.

[Philadelphia Times.]

Though an earthquake has shaken an American city to pieces, and the drought has burned up some of the Dakota wheat, the Autumn opens with the best business outlook for several years. The crops, as a whole, are better than last year, and, what is more to the purpose, the crops across the water are below the average, thus giving promise of a brisk demand for the American surplus, which must necessarily be large. An increase in railway building has also stimulated the iron and steel industries to a healthy condition.

The prosperity of the agricultural portions of the country is having a marked effect upon the trade of the Eastern cities. New York jobbers and wholesale dealers report the best Fall demand for dry goods, boots and shoes, furniture, builders' hardware and other articles that go to make up the stock in trade of the country dealer, they have had for several years. The increased demand comes both from the South and West, and is accompanied by that other, infallible sign of business prosperity, prompt collections. What is true of New York, is true of Philadelphia, Boston and other trade centers. Business is quickened everywhere and business men are confident of a permanent improvement in the demand for nearly all articles of ordinary consumption.

There are two features of this advance in business prosperity that are worthy of especial notice. The first is that the increase in demand is healthy and one that is likely to be maintained and not in the nature of a sudden boom, which may vanish as quickly as it came. The reason for this is that prices have not been materially advanced and there are no exorbitant profits to drain the resources of purchasers on the one hand, or cause a sudden expansion of production on the other. Goods are being made and sold for what they are really worth to consumers, and consumers find themselves able to pay reasonable prices for what they need.

The other feature of the present business condition, especially worthy of note, is that the grade of goods demanded by Southern and Western consumers is noticeably higher than formerly. They want better clothing, better furniture, choicer crockeryware, and boots and shoes of a finer quality than ever before. This indicates both the ability to pay for better goods and an improving taste in their selection. Manufacturers should not fail to take note of this demand for the best the country affords, and direct their attention to the production of the class of goods which is certain to be in demand in the future.

The Mechanic.

A young man began visiting a young lady recently and was well pleased with her. One evening it was quite late when he called, and the young lady inquired where he had been.

"I had to work to-night," he said.

"What! doing work for a living?" she inquired in astonishment.

"Certainly! I am a 'mechanic!' and she turned up her pretty nose.

That was the last time the young man visited the young lady. He is now a wealthy man, and has the nicest little wife in the city. The woman who disliked a mechanic is now the wife of a miserable fool—a regular loafer, and the miserable girl is obliged to take in washing to support herself and children.

You dislike the name of mechanic, eh?—you, whose brothers are but well dressed loafers. Any girl is to be pitied who is so silly as to think less of a man because he is a mechanic.—Boston Journal of Commerce.
